

THE RED REIVER

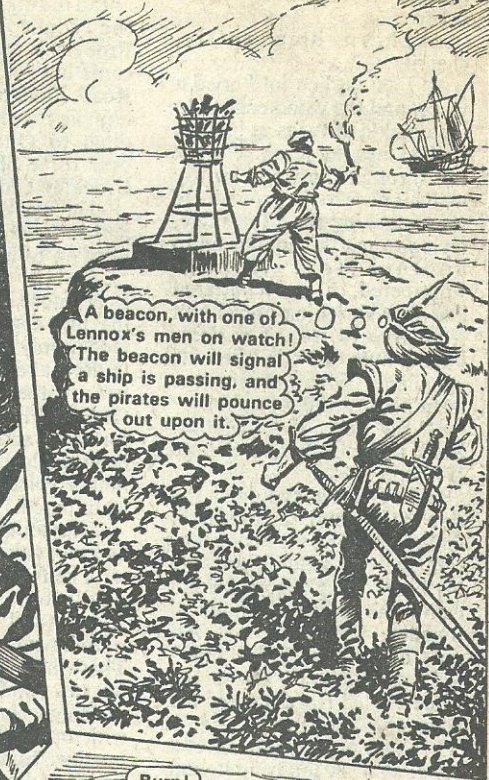

To the ship, men. We sail when we see the signal.

Wolf Lennox leads his men in search of plunder. He uses my lands as a base for his pirate raids. But what is the signal they await?

ALAN CALVERT, known as the Red Reiver from the red feather he wore in his bonnet, had vowed vengeance on Wolf Lennox and his pirate band, who had stolen Alan's lands and left him to drown.

Alan moved away to a headland at the mouth of the bay.

A beacon, with one of Lennox's men on watch! The beacon will signal a ship is passing, and the pirates will pounce out upon it.

Burn!

So you show fight, friend!

Hold! We will not bring the rats out of their hole yet!

Calvert! Returned from the dead!

One rat less on my land! I will wait until that ship is out of sight, then light the beacon.

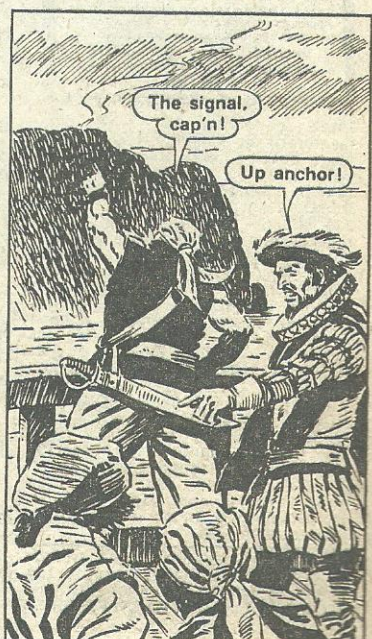

I'll not waste steel on you! Drop that dagger!

Urrgh!

Aagh!

The signal, cap'n!

Up anchor!